At Pure Complexions We Specialize in Sensitive Skin.

Unfortunately, the term “all-natural” has lost its meaning through the years. Too many manufacturers are touting their products as natural or organic, but they continue to include synthetically derived ingredients that can irritate sensitive skin and dramatically reduce therapeutic potential.

Our products, however, represent the purest and most natural skin care lines available. Each item is individually selected based on our own strict purity criteria. Our criteria is designed to reduce your exposure to potentially harmful substances and to be tolerated by even the most sensitive skin.

Because of our product purity, many customers see dramatic improvements in skin conditions like acne, rosacea, eczema, psoriasis, and dermatitis simply by replacing their mainstream products with our chemical-free skin care lines.

Why All-Natural Skin Care?

Your skin is an amazing organ that covers, protects, and dynamically interacts with its external environment. When you use soaps, lotions, and perfumes, your skin can absorb up to 60% of that product and deposit its constituents directly into your circulatory system. Although, pharmaceutical companies have utilized this phenomenon for decades, cosmetic companies don't have quite the same perspective.

New research on the use of synthetically derived skin care ingredients calls for a closer look at what we put on our skin. Petroleum derived and formaldehyde releasing preservatives may have long term health implications, yet these ingredients are present in 95% of all skin care products on the market, including those found at health food stores. Many of these chemicals are known irritants and carcinogens. They are especially problematic for people with sensitive skin. The use of these chemicals unnecessarily burdens your body's cleansing pathways and consumes resources that are better spent on healing.
